

We need to keep our major news media as diversified as possible. Combining these organizations is a major threat to what little freedoms we have left.